Belle – A Performance of Air

Creative Notes

“Give me matter and motion,
and I will construct the universe.”
— René Descartes

Belle was created in a time of uncertainty, amidst the fragility of our social constructs.

What began as an exploration of elevating physical apparatus and circus performers through contemporary design practice soon revealed itself as something more — a conduit to transcend the unease of the present moment. The uncertainty that this period brought carried a foreboding sense of anxiety — both immediate and for what the future might hold. In turn, it instilled a deep drive within the team to create a work that serves as an agent for both its creators and audiences to experience humanity’s capacity to both feel and create the sublime.

In a hall, by the sea, filled with smoke and little light, we came together and began to play.

Belle – A Performance of Air

Creative Notes

Belle is a multimedia performance experience harnessing the skills of nine dance and aerial artists from across Aotearoa and beyond. At its core, it is a work deeply rooted in light design, serving as a meditation on our physical and spatial constructs and the realms that exist beyond them. Belle takes a cosmic approach to the inhabitation of aerial apparatus and choreography, where circadian rhythms and ancestral connections shape the emotional landscape of the work. Featuring an all-female cast, it celebrates human strength, agility, and unity.

“Circus creates an environment where the spectator can observe the performer from a distance, like an unfamiliar object of wonder, isolating its essence and reminding us that in order to see the world, we must break with our familiar acceptance of it.”

Belle – A Performance of Air

Creative Notes

The bespoke aerial apparatus in Belle are designed and choreographed by Jenny Ritchie, with the collection also featuring the libellule — an exquisite creation by Swiss performance artist Mädir Eugster (1955–2023) of Rigolo. Rowan Pierce's spatial and light design interacts with the very laws of physics, dissolving walls and materialising light into ephemeral architectures. This work both collides and collaborates — where dance, aerial performance, and circus intersect with the art of light.

Music is composed by Eden Mulholland in collaboration with Anita Clark and Jol Mulholland who performs live.

The composition explores cyclic, melodic textures that regenerate and continuously morph, bringing forth the construct of evolution. The layering of multiple time signatures is designed to give a feeling of constant motion.
